

Eye Of The Storm

Anthony Baxter, the director of YOU'VE BEEN TRUMPED, turns his focus now on celebrated Scottish painter James Morrison. His fascinating film is beautifully complimented by Catriona Black animation, which gives life to Morrison's exceptional work particularly when he was painting melting icebergs and polar bears in North West Greenland.

Baxter also tells of Harrison's early years when he started painting the tenements of Glasgow before he became known for his spectacular landscape work. Sadly, in his later years Harrison begins to battle with blindness but he is still able to get truly excited after he hears about a new exhibition at the Scottish Gallery in Edinburgh. A treat for art lovers!
